Directions

Look at the pictures. Listen to the question about the pictures. Then answer the question.

Sometimes, food does not go straight from a farm to the store. For example, if a farmer grows wheat, the wheat may go to a mill. A mill is a place that grinds wheat into flour. Then the flour goes to a store. People buy the flour to use to make food like muffins.

4. Why does the wheat need to go to a mill?

Eggs and Chicks

- 1 Anna and her family live on a farm. One of Anna's jobs is to find eggs. Every day, Anna goes into the henhouse. She looks into the nests. When she finds the eggs, she puts them in her basket.
- 2 One day, Anna finished collecting the eggs and left the henhouse. She saw her brother Mickey sitting on the ground. He was looking closely at something. "What are you looking at?" she asked.
- 3 "There is a nest out here, too," he said.

4 Anna sat down next to him and looked at the nest. Inside was an egg. There was a hole in the shell and a tiny beak was peeking out of the hole. As the children watched, the hole got bigger. Then they watched the beak start to make a crack in the shell. The beak moved around in a circle. It made the crack bigger. Finally, the top of the egg broke off. Inside was a tiny chick. Then the chick crawled out of the egg

5 “It looks wet!” said Mickey.

6 “Chicks always look wet when they hatch,” said Anna. “It will dry soon.”

7 Then Anna and Mickey got up and walked away. They wanted to let the mother hen take care of her new chick. She would keep it warm. Then she would teach it to find food.
