

The mother stops to eat. She can reach the leaves high in the trees because giraffes are the tallest animals in the world.

When the mother has eaten, she leads her baby to the tall grass near the river. The baby stays very still in the grass.