

Fala, the terrier, could always be found at President Franklin Roosevelt's side. There is even a statue of Fala in Washington, D.C.

President John F. Kennedy and his family almost turned the White House into a zoo. They had dogs, birds, a cat, a rabbit, and a pony named Macaroni.