

Soon there were two baby foxes living with their mother and father under the old oak tree.

One day, two skunks crawled down inside the hole and looked around. "What a nice hole," one skunk said. "A perfect home," said the other.