

Maybe they're tired of roots and soil and they want leaves and stems to eat. But no one knows for sure.

Some people think worms feel raindrops drumming on the ground. They feel vibrations and get frightened.